Remnants of an ancient civilization in Amreli

1424. SHRI EKANATH K. THAKUR: Will the Minister of CULTURE be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that remnants of an ancient civilization have emerged in Amreli district as the waters of Shetrunji river receded after the recent floods; and

(b) if so, the details thereof?

THE MINISTER OF CULTURE (SHRI S. JAIPAL REDDY): (a) No, Sir. No such report has been received.

(b) Does not arise.

Sirpur Archaeological Complex

1425. SHRI EKANATH K. THAKUR: Will the Minister of CULTURE be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that a 1500 year old city, complete with a palace, temples, houses and Buddhist educational centre big enough to accommodate 10,000 students has been discovered at Sirpur, in Chhattisgarh;

(b) if so, the details thereof; and

(c) whether it is a fact that the Sirpur Archaeological Complex is almost four times as big as Nalanda?

THE MINISTER OF CULTURE (SHRI S. JAIPAL REDDY): (a) and (b) The excavations carried out so far at Sirpur, Distt. Mahasamund, Chhattisgarh, have brought to light remains of an extensive city datable to circa 6th-9th century A.D. The city contained, among other things, remains of a large Buddhist monastic complex comprising a sanctum sanctorum, a sixteen pillared hall, and ten monk's cells. The complex has preserved evidence of rich carvings depicting scenes from the life of Buddha, amorous couples, floral and animal designs besides kirti-mukh motifs.There was no discovery of a large educational centre capable of accommodating 10,000 students.

(c) Since the excavations at Sirpur are as yet inconclusive, it will not be appropriate to make comparisons with Nalanda.
